To ICDL:

It was with great sadness that I learned of the passing of Dr. Stanley I. Greenspan, ז"ל. Joining me in these sentiments are the countless numbers of individuals who have benefited not only from Dr. Greenspan's scholarship but from his actions in regularly sharing his vast knowledge, enticing others to learn and act in the best way possible in order to help those in greatest need. Dr. Greenspan devoted his life to the development of modalities of diagnosis and treatment. What is more, he did his utmost to share these with others so they too could learn and apply his methods, thus enabling this valuable help to be extended to many more individuals than one man could normally reach in a lifetime.

From this perspective, Dr. Greenspan will be remembered as a venerated teacher who was always a source of help to all those in need.

We at the International Center for the Enhancement of Learning Potential had the good fortune of attending a number of meetings with him and thus we continue to benefit from this rich source of instruction through our encounters with Dr. Serena Wieder.

I have no doubt that his efforts and teaching will continue to improve the quality of life of children and their parents and, by extension, will benefit society as a whole for many years to come.

May his memory be for a blessing.
